

Rebel Troops Preparing for Occupation of Basque Capital

Bilbao Defenders Apparently Get Ready For Last Stand

CONSUL IS RESCUED

British Sailors Take Official From City
Under Gunfire

Saint-Jean-de-Luz, France.—(AP)—
A landing party of British sailors rescued the British consul, R. C.
Stevenson from Bilbao under a hail of fire today.

The sailors, with bullets whistling all about them, landed from a warship outside the besieged Basque capital, escorted the consul aboard and brought him to this French port.

British officials made it plain
they did not consider the landing party was under direct attack, but instead, was caught in the line of general fire between Bilbao defenders and advancing insurgent-armies.
None was injured.

Stevenson was reported to have been the last Englishman in Bilbao. His staff and other British nationals—were evacuated long ago.

By the Associated Press
Generalissimo Francisco Franco's insurgent legions, inside Bilbao's broken "iron ring" defenses, marched on to encircle the Basque capital today as their last preparation for occupying it.

Inside the beleaguered city, apparently at the bitter end of its 11-week resistance to siege and the forces of the insurgents, militiamen threw up barricades and fortified houses for a last stand.

The insurgents, slowly and carefully marshaling their forces for the last charge from Bilbao's suburbs, were so close their rifle bullets fell in the city streets.

As houses on the outskirts were turned into machine gun and rifle nests against the immediately expected entry into the city, long lines
of automobiles, carrying refugees
westward along the bay of Biscay coast to government-held Santander.

President Jose Antonio Aguirre
of the Basque autonomous province promised his people a fight "to the bitter end."

Pleds for Intervention
Aguirre appealed to Great Britain to intervene to keep Franco from carrying out a reported threat to destroy the center of Bilbao with warplanes and artillery. British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden expressed the "earnest hope and conviction" that the insurgents would not devastate the Basque capital.

The United States navy department at Washington said the destroyer Kane had been ordered to St. Jean de Luz, France, just across a corner of the bay of Biscay from Spain, to evacuate any remaining Americans from Bilbao if necessary.

The staff of the French consulate was removed to St. Jean de Luz aboard the French destroyer Audace.
Three French freighters, however,
could not reach the port because of the insurgent bombardment.

Munguia Captured
The sweeping insurgent advance gained strength from the capture of Munguia, important highway junction northeast of Bilbao, and the Basque garrison at Galdacano, four miles south of the city.

The cautious insurgents may wait
for two or three days to finish cleanup operations and minimize the possibility of dispiriting sniping as their troops march in.

Apparently the strategy is to cross
the Nervion river, Bilbao's closed exit to the sea, at Galdacano and approach the capital from the west.

Alfonsi Charges Senate Leaders Playing Politics With Relief Situation

DIES IN LOUISIANA

New Orleans.—(AP)—Mrs. Champ
Clark, 82, widow of the famous Democratic speaker of the national house of representatives, died at the residence of her daughter, Mrs.
James M. Thomson, today after a long illness.

Besides Mrs. Thomson, wife of the publisher of the New Orleans Item-Tribune, Mrs. Clark is survived by a son, Senator Bennett Champ Clark (D-Mo.). Her husband died on March 2, 1921.

Mrs. Clark was a pioneer in the suffrage movement and joined her husband in the study of subjects connected with American history.

French Premier Seeks Power to Safeguard France

Wants Right to Take Necessary Measures to Bolster Finances

Paris.—(AP)—The people's front government of socialist Premier Leon Blum called upon parliament
today to give it complete power to fight off speculative raids on the franc and repair the national finances.

A single measure was introduced in the chamber of deputies providing authorization for the government "until July 31 to take by cabinet decree any measures necessary for the reconstruction of public finances as well as the protection of savings, money and the public credit."

The decree would be submitted for parliamentary approval within three months after being promulgated.

The government announced the decree powers would be used first to end maneuvers of speculators and deserters of the franc. Finance Minister Vincent Auriol estimated the total of French capital invested abroad by these "franc deserters" had reached 60,000,000,000 francs (about $2,670,000,000).

Secondly, it desires to check tax evasions.

These reforms, the finance minister estimated, will mean $5,000-000,000 francs ($225,000,000) more each year in revenue.

Auriol demanded immediate debate on the bill. He said the "attack of speculation and the attitude of deserters of the franc (those Frenchmen who have transferred their capital abroad) are such that the effectiveness of the measures proposed would be reduced and perhaps destroyed by long discussions."

The chamber split into party groups to consider the project.

Stress Unity of British Empire

Premier Points to Desire
For Peace but Won't Act for Disarmament

London.—(AP)—Empire statesmen testified to the solidarity of the British commonwealth today at the final plenary session of the imperial conference.

They declared there was no divergence between London and the dominions on any fundamental principles either in foreign policy or for defense.

Madison.—(AP)—Speaker Paul Al-
fonsi of Pence Progressive house leader, charged today that administration leaders in the senate are playing politics with the relief situation in northern Wisconsin to get the support of Senator Philip Nelson, (R), Maple, on the Wisconsin development authority bill.

Alfonsi, co-author of a measure passed by the assembly last week appropriated $1,000,000 to northern counties for defaulted relief payments, took the floor on a point of personal privilege after he had been advised his bill would not be heard by the finance committee tomorrow.

Instead, he said, the committee will hear a bill by Senator Nelson, which appropriates $750,000 for the same purpose.

He charged that senate leaders are trying to get the track for the Nelson bill to give the Douglas county Republican credit for the relief appropriation and are receiving encouragement from some one in the governor's office.

The diminutive house leader was so aroused with anger that his booming voice almost could be heard in the opposite chamber.

"I said last week that I did not want to see any politics played where human misery is involved," he roared. "Now you can see what has happened."

"Situation Acute"
"Four weeks ago I called the legislators of the Tenth congressional district to the speaker's office to see what could be done for those counties whose relief payments have stopped. The situation was acute."

"Finally we decided to go to the governor's office and were told there could be no relief bill for the next biennium until they found out what congress was going to do."

"We agreed to hold off for a few weeks and when nothing happened I went to the legislative reference library to have a bill drafted appropriating money from the general fund."

"Last Thursday we discovered that Senator Nelson had introduced a bill in the senate. The assembly passed the bill for $1,000,000 and the senate played politics to have it sent to the committee on state and local government."

"This morning the senate agreed to withdraw the bill from that committee and send it to the finance committee with the Nelson bill. But

Seven Perish as Cabin Boat Sinks

Fishing Vessel Lost Six Miles Off Shore in Delaware Bay

Bowers Branch, Del.—(AP)—Seven persons aboard a fishing boat were believed today to have drowned in the sinking of a 35-foot cabin boat
six miles off shore in Delaware bay, late yesterday.

The coast guard station at Lewes,
Del., reported it had been informed by radio by a coast guard cutter
near Bowers beach that the cutter
had picked up three of the fishing party and that seven bodies had been recovered. It was believed that ten men were aboard when it sank. Nine members of the party were from western Pennsylvania.

Captain Nelson Roland discovered the sunken craft after a search begun when the boat failed to return last night. Coast guard station at Cape May, N. J., and Lewes were notified.

General Leach Wins Minneapolis Race

Minneapolis.—(AP)—Brigadier General George E. Leach of the Minnesota National Guard, World war hero, today was Minneapolis' new conservative mayor-elect. He was chosen yesterday by Kenneth Haycraft, former Minneapolis football star who carried Farmer-Labor organization in the non-partisan election.

Leach had served four terms as mayor, from 1921 to 1929, when he lost to another conservative, William Kunze, a banker. He takes office July 5 for his fifth term.

The campaign was marked by a split in the Farmer-Labor ranks, which saw the incumbent, Thomas E. Latimer, defeated in last month's primary by Haycraft and Leach.
Haycraft and Latimer had set up rival Farmer-Labor organizations, but Haycraft drew the support of the state party. After the primary, Latimer backed Haycraft.

Incomplete returns gave Leach
38,485; Haycraft 50,822.

Edith Maxwell Granted Right to Make Appeal

Wrightsville, Va.—(AP)—The Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals today granted Edith Maxwell, twice convicted of killing her father, the right to argue before the state appellate court an appeal from her second conviction carrying a prison sentence of 20 years.

The privilege of arguing the case
came in the form of a writ of error
and supersedeas granted the bill country girl after a second conviction in the killing of Trigg Maxwell, her father, in a family quarrel
July 21, 1935.

She was re-located in the jail at Wise the past weekend after her $15,000 bond had asked to be released.

Kill Moves to Amend Bill on Civil Service

Upper House Fails to Reach Final Vote on Beverage Tax Division

SENATORS CLASH

Assembly Battles Over Proposed Probe of Medical Care Costs

Madison.—(AP)—The senate spent the morning killing off amendments to the assembly bill placing the state beverage tax division under civil service, but failed to reach a decisive vote before recessing until late afternoon.

Sensors Roland Kannenberg
(D), Kausau, and Arthur Zimny (D), Milwaukee, bitter opponents of the measure, which requires all present employees to take examinations, held the floor most of the time.

Kannenberg said State Treasurer
Sol Levitan, director of the beverage tax division, "is being machine-gunned by a bunch of political gangsters." The Wausau senator also directed an attack against the bureau of personnel, calling it "one of the most rotten departments in the state."

This remark drew a reply from Senator John Cashman (D), Denmark, who pointed out that the personnel bureau does no hiring and merely certified results of examinations to appointing officers.

Zimny, who sought to obtain "blanket" civil service for present employees, said he knew there were reports he was "personally interested in this bill because my brother-in-law (Inspector Charles Zimny) has a position in the beverage tax division. My brother's position doesn't mean a thing to me. I want to see a good bill passed."

Opponents of the Bismiller bill for an investigation of the cost of medical care wrote into the measure today by a vote of 46 to 42 an amendment giving the interim committee, which would make the inquiry, $40,000 instead of $3,000 expense money.

Sponsors of the bill interpreted the amendment, offered by Assemblyman Robert Tehan (D), Milwaukee, as a strategic reconsideration
of the vote by which it was adopted.

The motion for reconsideration carried the bill over for two days
at least.

Teahan contended that if a committee were to arrive at any final conclusions as to the cost of medical care it would have to employ experts and would need an apporportion commensurate with the cost of studies that have been made on a national scale.

Assemblyman Andrew J. Bie-mer, Milwaukee, the author, and David Sigman, Two Rivers, both Progressives, claimed the amendment was a subterfuge to scare the assembly into voting against the bill.

They said material gathered by other organizations, the help of experts now in the employ of the state at Wisconsin General hospital,
plus records compiled by the state medical society would only make it necessary for the interim committee to correlate the available information and report its recommendations.

State Labor Board Now Has Only Two Members

Madison.—(AP)—Departure of Prof.
Edwin E. Witte, of Seattle, Wash., where he will teach in the summer session of the University of Washington, left the new state labor relations board with two working members today.

Thomas Duncan of Governor La-Follette's secretarial staff said he had been advised of no action to replace the University of Wisconsin economist on the board.

"It was understood," Duncan said, "that Witte would leave about the middle of June. He had the summer school engagement before he accepted appointment on the labor board."

Prof. William G. Rice of the University of Wisconsin was mentioned in capital discussion as a possible replacement. Witte's colleagues were Vovta Wabnitz, chairman, and the Rev. Francis J. Haas, Milwaukee.

Garbage Collectors Say They Were Barred Day Mrs. Parsons Vanished

Stony Brook, N. Y.—(AP)—Two garbage collectors told federal agents
today that last Wednesday, the day
Mrs. Alice McDonnell Parsons, society matron, vanished, they were not allowed to enter the Parsons Long Island home when they called. It was the first time such a thing had happened in four years, they said.

The collectors, Arthur Chadwick,
31, and his Negro helper, George Winfeld, told their story to Earl Connelley, inspector of the federal bureau of investigation, and assistant District Attorney Lindsay Henry of Suffolk county.

It was their custom to enter the house, they said, descend to the basement and collect the garbage, but that on Wednesday they were met by Mrs. Anna Kupryanova, Russian housekeeper and companion to Mrs. Parsons, who pointed to a large package tied with cord, and told them: "That's all."

They also told Connelley the Parsons' automobile, which Mrs. Kupryanova had said stood outside the

House, Senate May Get Own Pay-Hour Bills

Joint Committee Decides To Split Into Groups,
Black Says

PLANS MAY DIFFER

1938 Relief Question Before Upper House
For Debate

Washington.—(AP)—Senator Black
(D-Ala.) disclosed today that different versions of the administration's wage and hour bill might be presented in the house and senate.

He said the joint committee studying the legislation has decided to split late this week into house and senate groups. Each will draft a measure of its own to establish minimum wages and maximum working hours for interstate industries.

Some committee members indicated they favored simpler legislation, fixing universal wage and hour standards, rather than the Black-Connelly bill to give broad regulating powers to a federal board.

Another major issue—the 1938 relief fund—came before the senate today.

The measure was a sentiment for cutting the administration's request for $1,500,000,000, but the greatest fight was expected over a proposal to make localities pay 40 per cent of the cost of non-federal relief projects.

Flood Control Bill
The house also was debating expenditures—a $194,328,000 bill for flood control, river and harbor improvements and other non-military public works supervised by the war department.

The measure earmarked $52,500-000 for flood control in New England and in the Ohio and Mississippi river basins.

Six senators and six representatives completed arrangements for the tax dodging inquiry, which probably will begin tomorrow with testimony by Secretary Morgenthau, Senator Harrison (D-Miss.) and Representative Doughton (D-N.C.)

They said they favored full publicizing of persons alleged to be evading or avoiding taxes.

Despite the attention devoted to these financial problems, one of the questions on man; tongues in the capital was: when will the senate debate the Roosevelt court bill?

The answer apparently lay with Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, who can call up the bill whenever he wishes. It probably will not be argued for a week or more, at least.

Today was the semi-annual deadline for war debt payments totaling $1,500,000,000, but once again Finland was the only one of 13 nations not intending to default.

Pickets Halt 2 Trucks In Wausau Controversy

Wausau.—(AP)—A car loaded with pickets halted two trucks loaded with motors at Plainfield, about sixty miles south of here, last night and forced the driver to return to Wausau. The trucks were enroute to Ripon. The motors were made here at the Marathon Electric Manufacturing corporation plant.

When a strike was called yesterday morning by about 100 members of the A. F. of L. Machinists' union, No demands have yet been made on the company. The A. F. of L. union lost an election at the plant Friday in which the C. I. O. was declared winner by a 268 to 101 vote. The trucks, loaded with motors, left again this morning. They were escorted out of the city by police.

Little Chute Child Is Near Death From Burns

Bernice, 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry DeGroot, Lat-tie Chute, was in critical condition
at St. Elizabeth hospital this afternoon from burns suffered in an accident near her home this morning.

Bernice was throwing paper from a waste basket on to a bonfire
when the flames ignited her clothing. Members of the family extinguished the fire but the child was badly burned about the body.

Johnstown Mayor Acts To Organize Vigilante Force to End Violence

C. I. O. Pickets Keep A-
F. L. Men From Entering Plant

SCORE ARE BEATEN

Police Fire Tear Gas
Shells to Scatter
Group

Ambridge, Pa.—(AP)—Rival factions representing the Committee for Industrial Organization and the American Federation of Labor battled today at the main gates of the National Electric Products company. Nearly a score of men were beaten.

Approximately 500 pickets about the plant clubbed 50 members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, an affiliate of the federation, who marched toward the gate chanting:

"We're going to work!"
The pickets were members of the United Electrical and Radio Workers, adherents of the John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization.

Police led by acting Chief Richard O'Neil fired tear gas shells at pickets, more than a hundred of whom were girls and women. The group scattered, many holding handkerchiefs to their eyes.

Kept From Plant
Pickets led by Morris Mallinger,
C.I.O. organizer, quickly reformed their lines as soon as the gas barrage lifted. The non-strikers, however, failed to get into the plant.

The strike affecting 1,900 workers, was called more than 10 days ago by United Electrical and Radio Workers. In complaints to the national relations board, the union charged the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and the company had signed an agreement
on wages and working conditions
when the A. F. of L. affiliate did not have a majority of employees as members. This, it claimed, was a violation of the Wagner act.

At a conference Saturday with the labor board, the C.I.O. affiliate refused to call off the strike.

Neil C. Lamont, plant manager, yesterday urged all employees to return to work today.

Burgess E. M. Paul hurried in a truck to the scene of the riot and took all tear gas equipment from police. O'Neil and three of the patrolmen promptly resigned.

Mallinger told a mass meeting of 3,000 persons who gathered in the wake of the battle that his union had been promised police protection and that borough officials had not kept their promise.

He exonerated Burgess Paul of blame for the tear gas attack and said he would ask Governor George H. Earle to send state police to the strike area.

Lie Detector Test In Fatal Shooting

Harold Best Taken to Evanston, Ill., for Test,
Sheriff Admits

Prairie du Chien.—(AP)—The sheriff's department of Crawford county admitted today Harold Best, 15-year-old brother of slain Mildred Louise Best, had been taken yesterday to Northwestern university
at Evanston, Ill., for a lie detector test but had no information to relate regarding the outcome of the test.

Sheriff Oliver White, who accompanied young Harold on the trip,
could not be reached today, and Northwestern university crime detection laboratory officials refused to comment.

The boy is to be taken into juvenile court Thursday for more questioning concerning the slaying.
Sheriff White said Harold twice confessed to shooting his sister with a .22 caliber rifle and later repudiated both confessions. The 11-year-old Soldiers Grove girl was slain on June 4 as she slept in her bed.

Carl Hill, Madison attorney, was retained as counsel for the boy, against whom no charge has been placed.

Amelia Earhart Lands Ship at Karachi, India

Karachi, India.—(AP)—Amelia Earhart arrived here tonight at 7:45 p.
m. (8:05 a. m. C. S. T.), completing a long and interrupted hop from Massawa, Entreg, on her "just for fun" aerial flight around the world.

She had been unreported for more than 29 hours on a leg of her flight that lay over Arabian desert and mountains and for about 1,000 miles across the Arabian sea.

Mrs. Earhart said she flew from Assab, Eritrea, on the African coast of the Red Sea just north of the gulf of Aden, to Karachi, on the Indian coast of the Arabian sea, in one hop. The airline distance is approximately 1,400 miles.

Mrs. Earhart said she would stay here probably a day but that her tentative plans to take off Thursday depended on the weather.

GENERAL DIES

St. Petersburg, Fla.—(AP)—Major General Adelbert Cronkhite, 76, United States army, retired, died at

days ago, but developed pneumonia and last night was placed under an oxygen tent.

Union Planning New Demands on General Motors

Rumor 35-Hour Week and Wage Increases on Committee's Program

Detroit.—(AP)—Speculation arose today on the heels of a union strategy session concerning new demands the United Automobile Workers of America will present to General Motors corporation.

A permanent committee to draft
the demands was in session here yesterday but the result of its deliberations was not disclosed. The committee consists of Homer Martin, U.
A. W. head, and representatives of 17 locals throughout the country.

The John L. Lewis union on June 11 gave formal notice to General Motors that it proposed to ask for important revisions in the agreement: a strike that tied up virtually every General Motors plant in the country last winter. That was the earliest date upon which such notice
could be given under the agreement which expired on Aug. 11.

Reported Demands
Although lacking official confirmation, the demands under consideration were understood to include:
a blanket wage increase of 10 cents
an hour, which would add $50,000,000
to the annual payroll of the corporation; a 7-hour day and 35-hour week; a national minimum wage of 75 cents hourly for women and 35 cents for men, straight seniority with a 15-cent increase of six months' trial period for new employees, and sale of collective bargaining rights for the U. A. W. in all General Motors plants.

No General Motors official has commented upon what may happen
when these demands are presented.
It is noteworthy, however, that by Aug. 11 most producers will be close to their new model periods, with the annual New York show opening late in October.

More than two score sporadic strikes have interfered with production in General Motors units since the agreement was signed. In virtually every instance the union has termed them "

Jury Finds Death Of William Kelly Was Accidental

River Says He Turned Into Ditch to Avoid Hitting Another Car

That William Kelly, 22, route 1, Greenleaf, came to his death May 31, "through an accident in an automobile driven by Norbert Giese," was the verdict returned by a coroner's jury at an inquest at the city hall here Monday afternoon.

Kelly was fatally injured when the car in which he was riding, driven by Norbert Giese, route 2, Greenleaf, ran into a ditch and broke off a pole near the Nitingale ballroom, three miles north of Kaukauna on Highway 41.

James Brick, the third occupant of the car, suffered a hip fracture and was unable to appear at the inquest Monday. Giese, who said he was driving north, between 40 and 50 miles an hour and that he turned into the ditch to avoid striking a car that pulled out of the Nitingale driveway in front of him. He said during the course of the evening he had had three glasses of beer but nothing else, and that he was driving the car with the permission of his parents.

Skull Fractured

Dr. George L. Boyd testified that Kelly suffered fractures of the skull and one leg and was in deep comatose shortly after the accident. Kelly never regained consciousness.

Leo Weigman, 19, 425 W. Tenth street, Kaukauna, an eye-witness of the accident, said he saw a cloud of dust, heard a crash and ran to the overturned car. He said he attempted to help Giese out of the car and later went into Kaukauna to get a priest. Questioned about Giese's condition, Weigman said:

"He looked all right to me."

William Glasheen, county motorcycle patrolman, said the distance between the house and the ballroom driveway and the pole struck by the Giese car is about 161 feet.

Elroy Petri, route 3, Greenleaf, and George Hannan, route 2, DePere, testified briefly on what they saw at the scene of the accident. Petri said Giese was not intoxicated.

Dr. H. E. Ellsworth, coroner, and Raymond P. Dohr, district attorney, conducted the inquest.

Plan County Unit Of Credit Unions

George Weinfurter Named President of Temporary Organization

About 100 members of credit unions in Outagamie county attended the meeting last night at the courthouse and made temporary plans for organization of a county credit unit which would be affiliated with the state credit union league and the national credit organization.

George Weinfurter was named president of the temporary organization with Cornelius F. Crowe as secretary. John Hansen was appointed chairman of the committee groups and he is to appoint a chairman committee to consider by-laws for the county chapter. Members will meet Monday, July 19, at the courthouse to consider final organization plans.

Representatives of 10 of the 21 credit unions in the county were present last night. Earl Renfro, Madison, member of the national board of the national association of credit unions, was guest speaker and told of the plans made to members since the credit union movement started.

The national association was founded in Boston and the headquarters were moved to Madison about two years ago because Wisconsin had more credit unions than any other state. Approximately three and one-half million dollars was loaned to members in the state last year.

Job Office Manager Will Attend Meeting

Fred R. Gehlke, manager of the Wisconsin State Employment Service bureau located here, will attend a district meeting of state employment managers at Fond du Lac Thursday evening. A dinner will precede the business meeting at which employment problems will be discussed.

Alfonsi Charges Senate Leaders Playing Politics

Now I find that Senator Rowlands, J. M. Rowlands, state finance chairman, refused to bring the assembly bill tomorrow.

"I'm getting sick and tired of hearing these men in the senate of the state. I'm getting tired of seeing individuals given concessions so they will vote for certain bills."

"The assembly bill will not be heard just because they have to get somebody's vote on WDA and because they have to give him credit."

"I am as good a Progressive as

CALIFORNIA AIR CRASH KILLS THREE

The three occupants of a light biplane which crashed in the exclusive Oak Knoll district of Pasadena, Calif., while attempting a forced landing were killed. They were Frank Bannister, 30; Fred Lobb, 29, and E. M. Patrick, 23. The wreckage of the ship is shown above.

Four Green Bay Residents Hurt In Auto Mishaps

Two Taken to Hospital After Car Strikes Parked Machine

Two Green Bay men were injured about 5:45 Monday afternoon when their automobile struck a parked car on Highway 55 near Sherwood and two other Green Bay residents were hurt in another accident near Kaukauna at 11:15 last night.

In the crash on Highway 55, A. L. Rosera, 608 Twelfth avenue, suffered a scalp laceration and Elmer Villase, 110 N. Washington street, injuries to his right ear and right arm. Both men were taken to St. Elizabeth hospital by John Van Thiel, route 2, Kaukauna.

The other two were injured when their car skidded off the pavement and crashed into a light pole at the intersection of Plank road and Green Bay road on Highway 41 at the northeastern outskirts of Kaukauna last night.

Scalp Is Cut

J. N. Basten, 228 N. Washington street, Green Bay, driver of the car, suffered lacerations of the scalp and body bruises and his companion, Miss M. Thompson, was shaken and bruised. Basten was taken to a doctor's office in this city where 12 stitches were taken in his head.

The couple was driving towards Green Bay when the car slipped on the gravel covering the pavement and left the road. The pole was broken off. Badly damaged, the machine was towed to a Kaukauna garage.

After medical treatment, Basten and Miss Thompson continued to Green Bay.

Automobiles driven by William Reetz, 1107 W. Oklahoma street, and Jerome Litscher, 932 W. Summer street, were slightly damaged in a collision on W. Winnebago street at 7:40 Monday evening. No one was injured, police reported.

An interstate commerce commission examiner has recommended that the Olson Transportation company, Inc., Green Bay, be authorized to continue operation as a common motor carrier between points in Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana.

"And I also want the senate to know they are not going to play horse with the gentleman from Iron (Alfonsi). If they are I'm going to be the head and shoulders."

"I concur in everything you have said," interpreted Assemblyman Charles A. Budenz (R), Marinette.

"Except that you called Senator Nelson a Republican. He's been voting with the administration all along."

When Alfonsi resumed his seat, a sudden hush fell over the house. Assemblyman John Grobenschmidt (D), Milwaukee, quickly offered a motion for a recess which was adopted.

Accommodations for 12,000 in Field House for Annual Ceremony

Madison, Wis.—(AP)—Alden W. White, secretary of the University of Wisconsin public functions committee, announced the annual commencement exercises, which will be held June 21, will be thrown open to the general public for the first time in seven years.

Installation of the second balcony in the university field house, adding 4,000 seats to the capacity, enabled officials to make the decision, White said. He emphasized all seats will be reserved.

Nearly 12,000 persons are expected to fill the field house for this year's commencement—the 64th in the university's history—and to attend weekend activities which will climax four-year periods of study for 1,200 seniors. More than 300 graduate students will receive masters or doctors degrees.

Functions for the annual event will get under way Friday with an Alumni Institute holding sessions throughout the day. Saturday has been designated as "Annual Alumni Day." Hundreds of Wisconsin alumni are expected to return for the occasion.

Dr. George C. Sellery, dean of the college of letters and science, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of 1937 Sunday. His address is titled "The Spirit of Wisconsin."

At the commencement ceremony, which will begin at 8:30 a. m. Monday, greetings will be given to the graduates by Governor LaFollette, while the charge to the senior class will be made by President Clarence A. Dykstra. The Rev. Emul B. Frye, pastor of the First Methodist church, will give the invocation and benediction.

In addition to some 1,500 academic degrees to students, honorary degrees will be conferred upon six American leaders in the fields of science, landscaping, law and finance, medicine and education. Those to be honored are:

Martha McChesney Berry, founder and director of the Berry schools for mountain boys and girls at Mount Berry, Ga.; William Kies, New York city lawyer, banker and distinguished Wisconsin alumnus; Harry A. Capital Ponders Over Vacation of Vice President

Lawrence Sees Indication of Opposition to Supreme Court Bill

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—The biggest mystery in Washington today is why John Garner left town.

Has the vice president broken with President Roosevelt? Has Mr. Garner felt that his withdrawal at this time from the senate would emphasize to the public his complete disapproval of the present trend of administration policies?

Certainly it is most unusual, as congress moves into the critical weeks of a session, for the vice president to absent himself on a six weeks' vacation. It is true that Mr. Garner sought and obtained the "boss's permission," as he familiarly refers to the president, but this does not explain his willingness to leave just as the supreme court bill is ready for debate and consideration.

Under the rules, the vice president cannot participate in senate debate, so, if he has any views to express, he cannot do so as would any senator. John Garner feels that he is a soldier in the ranks. He said as much in his speech of acceptance a year ago, when he was renominated for the vice presidency.

When reports are published that he has broken with the president, it would not be surprising even to see the vice president endeavor to emphasize the importance of his taking a rest at this time, rather than the reasons being suggested here in Washington. As a soldier, he obeys, but nevertheless it is no longer a matter of concealment here that the vice president does not agree with the latest proposals from the White House. Mr. Garner sits at the cabinet table, but it is doubtful whether, even in the presence of the ten members of the cabinet, he would speak his mind in frank criticism of administration policies.

Private Sessions
Reliable reports have it that Mr. Garner has been having a series of personal interviews with President Roosevelt in which he has attempted to tell him how deep-seated, for instance, is the opposition of Democratic senators to the supreme court plan. He has discussed other legislation and has suggested, it is said, that congress finish up a few appropriation bills and adjourn forthwith.

The president is reported to have agreed that at least the vice president needed a rest. It will be recalled that Mr. Roosevelt went on a fishing trip to the Texas shores of the Gulf of Mexico and came back with tales of how he had been talking with various persons and they all seemed to think the supreme court needed to be enlarged by six justices.

Likes to Fish Too
Now Mr. Garner goes to the self-same state of Texas, and maybe Mr. Roosevelt thinks the vice president will get a different perspective when he gets down to Uvalde, Tex., than he has had heretofore. John Garner likes to go fishing, too. Mr. Garner's views on pending questions have, from time to time, been communicated to his colleagues in the senate, so they know he has had fundamental differences with the administration, but when it came to cracking the whip and lining up the votes on such things as the "death sentence" for the utilities, the vice president did yeoman service for the administration.

Just why the chief liaison officer that the White House has for the upper house on capitol hill should leave when he might be most needed is difficult to explain, but it does not seem reasonable to accept at face value that the purpose is merely to get a rest. Certainly, when there's a tie vote, the vice president is an important factor in administration policy. There have often been occasions when a tie vote had to be broken by the vice president. The departure of Mr. Garner means, therefore, the loss of one vote for the administration. Entirely apart from this is the effect on the morale of Democratic senators.

Situation Unhealthy
In the last few weeks I have talked with a number of senators on the Democratic side. Most of them tell

France Unveils First Statue of Marquette

Laon, France—France's first statue of Father Jacques Marquette, the seventeenth century Jesuit missionary who explored the upper valley of the Mississippi, was unveiled here Sunday, on the 300th anniversary of his birth, in the presence of high French and American officials.

A vial of Mississippi river water, brought by H. H. Kidder of Marquette, Mich., was poured on the monument as part of the dedication ceremonies.

The monument shows Father Marquette in one canoe and two Indians in another against a background of Mississippi river wilderness.

Robert Murphy, United States consul in Paris and former student at Marquette university, Milwaukee, represented Ambassador William C. Bullitt at the ceremonies.

2 Actions Against WPA Supervisor are Quashed
Ashland—Two actions filed against Louis Pike, WPA supervisor of conservation for this district, were dismissed in municipal court Monday by Judge T. A. Humphrey on motion of District Attorney Arthur Johnson.

Pike was charged with using fraudulent means to secure truck rentals from a local garage and fraudulently inducing John Long, Mellen conservation warden, to guarantee payment on a $400 note.

Asks Million Dollar Addition at Madison
Washington—(AP)—Representative Harry Sauthoff, Madison, Wis., Progressive, discussed with treasury officials Monday the possibility of getting a $1,000,000 addition to the Madison post office.

Sauthoff told officials the additional space is needed for federal agencies, now unable to find quarters in government-owned buildings.

me that the supreme court bill has hung like a cloud over the work of the whole session, that the friends of the president are disappointed at his unwillingness to work in harness as a member of a team and that his decision to play a lone hand and insist arbitrarily on his own will has caused no end of embarrassment on capitol hill. Lacking in enthusiasm for the party program, tired, unhappy and distressed beyond public expression at the failure of the president to act decisively when the "sit-down" strike crisis occurred, the situation for almost half the Democratic membership of the senate is about as unhealthy as it could be from the standpoint of party solidarity.

Maybe Mr. Garner thought that the best way to persuade Mr. Roosevelt about the seriousness of the situation was to go away for six weeks and let the president of the country ponder the significance of the differences of opinion between the two men who led the Democratic party at the polls less than a year ago.

How Appleton Grew Under Its 30 Mayors Since 1857

(This is the eighteenth of a series of articles discussing Appleton's mayors and the important matters occurring during their administrations. These articles will appear once a week in the Post-Crescent.)

BY LLOYD J. DERUS

Installation of arc lights on city streets and completion of a direct telephone connection with the city of Chicago were outstanding advancements in Appleton during the terms of A. H. Levings, who served as mayor during 1889, 1890 and 1891.

During his last term he moved his residence to Milwaukee and a special election to name his successor became necessary.

In an effort to give satisfactory service, the water works company in 1889 spent $50,000 laying additional pipes and erecting a filter plant. The following year a new agreement was entered into with the city whereby a number of new hydrants were installed and old city claims against the company dropped.

Due to financial troubles the street railway company suspended operations in 1889 and sold the plant to a New York company in 1890. Service was then resumed.

The Gengenwart, a German newspaper, was published from the office of the Folksfreund for the first time in 1889. The city's financial condition was sound in 1890 when the city showed a balance of $36,862.91 on April 1. The new railway station was opened in June of that year.

An output of 132 tons of paper was made daily by the local paper mills in 1890. A sulphite fibre plant was established here.

The old cemetery in the heart of the business district was called a nuisance as many persons used it as a dumping ground. Most of the bodies of the old cemetery had been moved to the new Riverside cemetery at the east end of town on the shore of the Fox river.

If one shallow irrigation well does not give a sufficient water supply, then several such wells should be installed in a straight line about 40 or 50 feet apart.

Drivers Ordered To Reduce Speed On City Streets

Police to Arrest Motorists Going More Than 25 Miles an Hour

In a new drive to reduce the toll of traffic accidents, Appleton police announced today that, beginning Wednesday, motorists found driving more than 25 miles an hour in the city will be arrested.

Sergeant Carl Radtke, head of the police traffic squad, said this morning that reduction in speed is deemed necessary to cut the rising number of accidents.

Coupled with the warning about reduced speed, was a police plea for general cooperation in the elimination of dangerous practices which cause accidents.

Stay In Lane
Motorists discharging passengers from their automobiles are requested to stop in places which will make jay-walking unnecessary. Drivers are asked to stay in the right lane of traffic if intending to turn right and to not only stay in the left lane but signal with their hand if they plan to turn left.

The practice of starting "on the bumper" at intersections regulated by automatic signals must be discontinued or offending drivers will be arrested, police said. The lights must be green before traffic may start across an intersection.

Police emphasized that fast-top on signs spells "stop" and not "slow down" or "shift gears." Unless motorists come to the full stop required, they will be subject to arrest, it was stated.

Youngsters Can Help

Youngsters also are being urged to help prevent accidents by refraining from "hooking on" to trucks with their bicycles riding in and out of private driveways, hitchhiking, playing on streets at any time and particularly at intersections at night, and similar practices.

A general check on brakes to conform with the law requiring ability to stop in 30 feet while driving at 20 miles an hour is urged.

Enforcement of the 10-mile an hour limit in public parks is necessary to prevent accidents there, it was stated.

MILLIONS of people everywhere are giving up old-fashioned paring methods, because they can now use the new, double-action Blue-Jay method, that really removes the corn. A corn goes so deep that with home paring it is only trimmed. Pain stops instantly by removing the pressure. Then that entire corn lifts out—Root and All—in just three short days (except exceptionally stubborn cases may require a second application).

The Buchert Coal company, 500 N. Superior street, was victimized to the tune of about $48, by a bad check passer using a new system Monday, according to a report to the sheriff's department.

The man appeared at the coal company office, ordered four tons of coke delivered to a Brewster street address and presented a $94.40 check on the Appleton State bank to Henry R. Keller by William H. Schroeder, in payment. He received about $48 in cash and departed.

When residents of the delivery address didn't want any coke this morning, company officials discovered that all was not well. A "no account" report from the bank confirmed it.

Gunderson Says Senior LaFollette Saved State From Lumber Barons

Superior—Tribute to the late Governor Robert M. LaFollette as the state's savior from exploitation by lumber barons and railroad corporations was paid in a memorial address here yesterday by Lieutenant Governor Henry A. Gunderson. Speaking at an observance commemorating the late governor, Gunderson said the two factions, barons and corporations, controlled the state for 20 years before LaFollette took office.

"Had he entered the political arena sooner, the large timber supply of northern Wisconsin would not have been exploited, and would still be a good source of income," Gunderson said.

All LaFollette had on his side, Gunderson added, was honesty, integrity, ability and the love for the average man.

"There were no newspapers to print his side of the issue, no radios to give full benefit to his oratorical abilities, but he finally won the Republican party nomination for governor and took office."

The lieutenant governor cited the late governor's leadership and said "the people of Wisconsin should be proud to have Mr. LaFollette a native of this state."

He referred to the primary election law, which prevents certain cliques from controlling elections, as an outstanding piece of legislation which preserves LaFollette's name for posterity.

Gunderson said watering of corporation stock at the expense of consumers was outlined by the late governor for needed correction.

Gunderson said LaFollette's solution to labor problems was the advocacy of minimum wage laws and maximum hour laws. He said a further solution offered was the turning over to employees of a percentage of the added earnings made possible by modern machinery.

after taking the hills towards Santander.

Outskirts of the ancient Basque capital of Bilbao were turned into machine-gun and rifle nests. Expert snipers picked advantageous spots from which to harry the invaders.

While the "last stand" preparations were being rushed, the rifle bullets from the outskirts, ping-pong on the cobblestone streets, brought home to defenders how close modern fight has drawn to a city which has been invincible for centuries.

Border advances said the defenders were facing the onslaught calmly.

During the night, government artillery inside the city started a heavy bombardment of insurgent positions. While the shelling was at its height, long lines of automobiles sped out of Bilbao and along the Biscay coast carrying refugees toward Santander.

Many women, old men and wounded fled from the city which they had refused to leave when insurgents first started their drive against Basque allies of the Spanish republic early in April. Thousands of children have been evacuated by sea.

An insurgent communique, which estimated Basque casualties during the last four days as about 6,000, said the attackers were descending to the capital along a line that stretched from Galdacano to the sea on the west side of Bilbao.

GOLD AND ORIGINAL SIN

Congressman Schneider voiced alarm the other day at the Administration's gold purchasing program.

That alarm has been voiced by a great many. But nothing seems to come of the voices.

The congressman failed to voice any opinion as to what should be done to avoid threatening danger.

It was congress which transferred to the President the right to cheapen American money by bidding higher for gold. At the time this act was passed America was willing to pay $20.67 for an ounce of gold. The President, authorized by congress, boosted the price to $35.00 an ounce. Whatever troubles we may have in the future and which now seem to concern Congressman Schneider and many others are directly traceable to that wrongful act.

Of course, it was done for its immediate benefit. It cheapened American products abroad. But after that invitation to more commerce had spent its force the wrongful effect of the act continued.

Today our nation has about 12 billions of gold in its strong boxes. About 5 billions of this have come in from foreign lands since Mr. Roosevelt cheapened the dollar. And what do the foreign countries get for it? They get credit which first takes the form of bank deposits.

The gold has not brought us the business the Administration thought it would bring us and this because the bank deposits we have given the foreigners for their gold have not been spent for our goods but invested in securities in this country.

Of course we will be sending abroad the interest and dividends of those investments. And, remarkable somersault when you are talking about loopholes, the last congress cut the income tax on aliens residing abroad.

Nor should it be forgotten that these bank credits are kept here expressly so that in case of war goods may be purchased in America under our prevailing Neutrality Act which is based upon the cash-and-carry principle.

Now the truth of it is we want no more gold. But the foreign countries want to sell it to us because they know that in fact they are draining us of real wealth by giving us their gold. Russia, with its millions of bent-back slaves, can mine gold cheaper than anyone in the world. A man's wages only cost Russia a pot of potato soup, a few hunks of black bread and a couple of dried fish a day. With that sort of gold Russia can come to America and buy out the exquisite results of American genius and labor, something that cannot be created in Russia nor even conceived by minds devoted to eternal blood-letting.

But now, you see, the Administration has the country in a position where it cannot let go the bear. If we quit paying $35.00 an ounce for gold the market is bound to drop. And if it drops we are going to be gigantic losers because we have over half the gold in the world in our vaults, and for most of it we paid the high price.

Now note Mr. Schneider and many others are alarmed. But the trouble goes back to the original sin—the assumption by congress of its authority to the President and its misuse by the latter.

ARMS OF THE MILITARY SERVICE

"He 'em where they ain't" is the magic rule for a good baseball slugger and "Get there fastest with the mostest men" still spells success in affairs military.

The Spanish war to date proven, as did the World war, that our friends, the leathernecks, the tried and true infantry, still constitute the most important and indispensable arm of the military service.

Tanks may come and get anti-tank guns will be constructed to get them. The aircraft service is helpful, and as bothersome to the enemy as a swarm of wasps; but anti-aircraft guns are putting more shots up in the skies than ever anticipated. The situation is akin to that in the naval forces of 40 years ago when torpedo boats were first constructed and heralded as so powerful a weapon as to drive great navies off the waters; but the torpedo boat destroyer was constructed,

Nothing has occurred in the Spanish war to alter expert military opinion's conclusion that a future war in western Europe will quickly parallel itself with the war of 20 years ago; that is, become a stalemate of trench warfare. This could be avoided only by lightning-like initial strokes and these are a practical impossibility against prepared nations.

To date the Spanish war has also demonstrated that however terrifying in their appearance aerial bombardments of cities may be, even if unopposed by an enemy unable to take to the air, they are not likely to win wars excepting as they may wear down the morale of the people. Aerial maneuvers for the most part may be seen. And the bad results cannot be successfully coated with sugar.

Western Europe means trench warfare, and the infantry as the "Queen of Battles." Eastern Europe, or any other terrain providing extensive maneuvering spaces, will invite more open warfare. And open warfare means cavalry as well as infantry.

The means employed in military affairs have changed often and swiftly through the centuries as different instruments of destruction have been invented but the major importance of the goodnatured and plodding doughboy, persists today even as it did when the Valley of the Nile shook with the tread of mighty armies or the Medes and Persians ruled the world with the sword.

EXODUS OF YOUTH

This month marks the annual climax of America's Twentieth century mass education experiment. Some 150,000 young men and women will graduate from colleges and universities throughout the nation, many more will finish high school and make their exodus into the outside world or will continue on into college.

One of the most surprising facts about the present college generation is its size, for it now represents about 1,250,000 units of our population, or approximately one per cent. The college population has increased from 250,000 in 1917 to five times that number in 1937.

It is rather a general belief that several other changes have taken place in educational philosophy and in the attitude of students toward education in just the last few years.

In the first place colleges and universities are trying harder than ever to "prepare young people for life." Secondly, authorities have noticed a new attitude on the part of students which indicates that in their education they are demanding more attention to realities in the outside world, and that they are much more same-minded than was the case in the outmoded "Joe College" days.

It is true that educational institutions have placed more and more emphasis on social studies in the last few years. The depression has accentuated the need for the teaching of economics, sociology and kindred subjects. But it is still very doubtful if colleges can prepare students for life simply for the reason that life in the outside world itself with its knocks and its disappointments is the only real teacher of the great and complicated subject of living. Any parent knows that he can pass on his own experiences for the benefit of his children only in a small degree. Young people have to learn their lessons for themselves, and only in the rather cruel and cold world of actuality.

It may be true also that students today are more serious toward preparing themselves for their future. But it is also still true that youth is impetuous, radical, rebellant and unwise. Wisdom comes only with experience and with living.

If students have gained some conception of this truth, then they have in a good measure prepared themselves for life. If they have learned humility, if they realize that their education is really only beginning, then, curiously, they may in truth be called "educated."

If all these young men and women can learn while they are still in school, or as soon as they emerge, that the knowledge they gained during four brief years, isolated as it must be to general theory, must still be tempered with actual conditions as they exist in the business and social worlds, then they can go out of school still ready and willing to learn. They then can build their principles and their philosophies on a firm basis, instead of still sailing over life's actualities on wings of highly flavored theory.

TRY THIS ONE ON YOUR PIANO

A vote was had of the workers in the steel plant at Monroe, Michigan.

They voted six to one to go back to work.

That is, about 85 per cent wanted the work and were satisfied with the terms. And the pay, there is no dispute, is excellent.

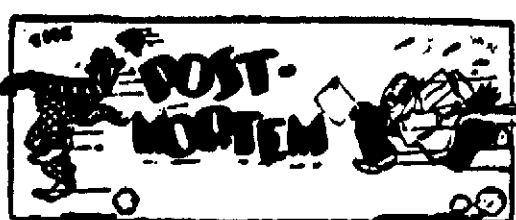

But the C.I.O. has threatened to send anywhere from 10,000 to 200,000 strong-armed men with brass knuckles and clubs to prevent the 85 per cent in that mill from outliving the 15 per cent.

It seems that 15 per cent, plus $600,000-Jawn, makes a majority.

A federal fish hatchery covering 108 acres will be built at Uvalde, Tex. Vice-President Garner's home town. The hatchery will cost about $100,000.

State figures show the average teacher in small Florida high schools has taught five years as compared with an 8 1/2 average for those in large schools.

Surgeons removing the appendix of Herbert Ferguson, 36, Lincoln, Ind., coal miner, found a stone in it an inch and a half in circumference.

HOW ABOUT SOME NICE SNAPPY PUBLICITY, MR. SECRETARY

THERE has been so much happening in the various strike centers that your correspondent has become slightly dizzy about the entire proceedings. Up to the vigilantes down in Anderson, Indiana, and the vigilantes that are being organized elsewhere, it looks as though the boys were going to tight it out along those lines even if it takes them all summer. . . . the subject of vigilantes is a fascinating one—the morbid type . . . it is a throwback to the frontier days when law enforcement bodies were unable to handle various situations that developed and people found it necessary to band together and turn on the heat in their own way. . . . the injustices that grow out of vigilante action are equally as unpleasant as those that have been growing out of C.I.O. terrorism, and the net results are pretty unpleasant to contemplate. . . . I wonder just how much longer it will be before recall action against Frank Murphy is revived? . . . and I wonder if the reaction against C.I.O. is likely not only to beat Murphy but also to have its effect on Earle of Pennsylvania (the presidential aspirant whose labor troubles are just beginning), on Davey of Ohio, on Townsend of Indiana (where the shootings occurred recently) and on Horner of Illinois. . . . trouble has been brewing constantly in all these states. . . .

The success of the two Chicago baseball teams, for which people in these parts seem to have considerable affection, is pleasant to note, as is the rise to golfing heights achieved by Ralph Guldahl.

If for no other reason, sports have a very definite part in getting our minds off some of the various unpleasantities which are being furnished us daily with the news.

What with the labor scraps, the floods, the Texas school catastrophe, the Hindenburg disaster, and a score of more such affairs, this year, we'll need all the cheerful stuff possible.

Dunno why it is lately, but Mr. Big has been almost as silent as Vice-President Garner.

It may be a new type of political maneuvering, but it certainly is a radical departure.

Silencing Franklin is just one of those things like turning off the rain.

So he must be doing it by himself.

All of which should be the signal for a new and fancy outburst.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

THE MAPLE TREE

There never was a maple tree
 That cast so sweet a shade,
 From my high window I can see
 A nest the robins made.

I saw the baby leaves appear
 When magic was begun
 By Spring, who twined the gloomy year
 With garlands in the sun.

I think the tree has seen me watch
 Its progress from my tower,
 When from Time's largesse I could snatch
 A precious little hour.

For never were the leaves so big
 In any other Spring,
 And never did the gracious twig
 Send forth such blossoming.

Now by my window they enchant
 My sight and bring me peace,
 And with immortal beauty grant
 My troubled heart release.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY M. D.
 Noted Physician and Author

BERIBERI IN NORTH AMERICA

Beriberi, endemic polyneuritis or multiple neuritis is a chronic disease prevalent in tropical and sub-tropical countries, sometimes in this country, although probably many cases in this country are never recognized because few physicians are familiar with the manifestations of the disease.

Beriberi, in Singalese, means extreme weakness.

The cause of beriberi is prolonged deprivation or deficiency of vitamin B. For example the outer coat of rice grains is rich in vitamin B; the inner part of the grain contains little or none. Hence in countries where rice is the staple food beriberi prevails in proportion with the custom or practice of using polished rice instead of the plain brown rice. The process of polishing rice to make it white robs it of nearly all its vitamin B. The polishes so removed from the rice kernels are indeed now in considerable demand as an excellent source of vitamin B to supplement our refined diet here in America.

Beriberi, extreme weakness. Keep that in mind.

Now here is a typical American case—well, anyway, a Yankee case. Married woman aged 56 years, had never weighed over a hundred pounds, sometimes under a hundred, five feet one inch tall and a woman that tall should weigh from 120 to 130 pounds from 21 to 50 years of age.

By steady deterioration this woman became gradually disabled and was finally taken to a hospital when her weight had declined to 59 pounds. Needless to say she had little life. Indeed, her relatives were summoned to the bedside and once or twice it seemed the end had come. As many physicians or specialists had been consulted at various stages of her long chronic illness, the physician in attendance at the last illness asked the nearest relatives for consent for a necropsy, and this consent was signed.

But the little woman had something, vite or no vite. She began to gain. She added weight week by week, and in the course of three months was back home, the life of the party, completely cured.

Her illness was multiple neuritis, alcoholic. She had been living on alcohol and desiring and taking less and less food, or perhaps rejecting food when she did take it. All she wanted was another drink and she could still evade enough alcohol to keep her alive. If such existence can be called living—helpless, useless, a burden and a shame to her nearest and dearest. I said this was a typical Yankee case.

What cured the polyneuritis, the beriberi? Vitamin B, of course. The last doctor made the patient take several ounces of wheat germ daily—first steamed or boiled a few minutes into a mush or porridge, later in various breads, biscuits, cakes, and raw mixed with orange or tomato juice or other beverage. Each ounce of wheat germ contains approximately 350 units of vitamin B. Normal day's ration of vitamin B for healthy adult is perhaps 800 to 900 units.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Adam's Apple

What causes so called Adam's Apple? How can it be removed or lessened to some degree? How long will it take? (G. F.)

Answer—Prominence of the cricoid cartilage of the larynx or voice-box. It would be less prominent if the posture were corrected by suitable exercise and additional weight were accumulated.

Spinal Curvature

Girl, 23, slight congenital lateral curvature. When this was discovered ten years ago was advised not to carry anything heavy. Now wish to work as canvasser, requiring that I carry case weighing ten pounds or more, several hours a day, from door to door. What would you suggest? (M. M.)

Answer—Probably it will not be a strain now. Why not divide the load into two cases and carry one in each hand? Or at least change every minute or so from one hand to the other.

Flake White

Read that flake white, used with glycerin and rose water, as liquid face powder, may cause lead poisoning, rheumatism, etc.? (M. H.)

Answer—Flake white is bismuth subnitrate, not lead, and is comparatively harmless to use in that way.

Your Birthday

"GEMINI"

If June 16 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:45 to 10:45 a. m., from 1:45 to 3:45 p. m. and from 7:45 to 9:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 6:45 to 8:45 a. m. from 11:45 a. m. to 1:45 p. m. and from 9:45 to 11:45 p. m.

The promiscuous making of promises this day will lead only to embarrassing situations. Disregarding the individual rights of those with whom you are thrown into close contact will prove dangerous to peaceful conditions. Be watchful of technicalities in drawing up agreements, remembering that frequently "an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure."

Partiality, as well as partiality, may warp judgment and be the primary cause of a great amount of unintentional injustice being done, so be on your guard that neither influences any of your actions. Married and engaged couples, as well as lovers, must be careful that some headstrong notion does not prove to be a stumbling block in their way to happiness this day.

If a woman and June 16 is your birthday, you are probably a person of ambition. You have most likely, a lively imagination, which makes you either inclined to be romantic or poetic. Your relatives may misunderstand some of your motives, but your friends never will, so you are apt to receive more cooperation from the latter. You may be inclined to plunge into things in rather a headlong fashion, which is a mistake. The time may come when you will have plenty of money at your disposal, so practice the art of wise spending. You are, probably, very fond of the good things in life, especially food, music and the theatre for entertainment. Among your best mediums for self-expression may be acting, teaching, singing, painting or sculpturing. Love, in all likelihood, will aid you in your selection of the right man as your husband.

The child born on June 16, as a rule does its best work at school in its early teens, lays the foundation for many valuable, lasting friendships, and enhances its popularity.

Some fine opportunities seem to be awaiting it when it reaches maturity.

If a man and June 16 is your natal day, if you keep pace of the times, you most likely will make money. Some of the best activities for you to select a career from are: law, medicine, chemistry, contracting, building, acting, writing and selling.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York—From the gold coast of Hollywood comes this tale of a sentimental Irishman who was moved to tears by one of his own pictures. . . . It was "Captains Courageous," and in it were Spencer Tracy and Freddie Bartholomew. . . . Russ Countryman, New York art editor, was visiting in Hollywood and, upon attending the premiere of the picture, was pleasantly surprised to find himself sitting next to Spencer Tracy.

There are a lot of tender moments in the film, and when the lights came up everybody was dabbing handkerchiefs at their tear-stained faces. Tracy was weeping too. . . . "Well," he said, apologetically, "I can't help it. That kid gets me, even when I work with him."

Less sentimental but just as amusing is this account of Belle Didjah, the dancer, who went to Vienna not long ago and was interviewed by a very homesick New Yorker. . . . As he talked with the dancer he began to rave over the old town, recalling nostalgic episodes and commenting hungrily about restaurants he knew so well back in Manhattan.

"But of all New York," he cried, "I pine most of the coffee and doughnuts at that famous doughnut shop at 45th and Broadway."

That set Miss Didjah thinking. She didn't say anything at the time, but later that evening after she returned to her hotel, she called her managers in New York and gave them some instructions.

So her managers quietly went over to the Mayflower doughnut shop and purchased a carton of these confections. Each was wrapped individually so that it would retain its freshness and fragrance, and then the treasure was sent by first class mail to the lonely correspondent in Vienna. They ought to be there about now, and can't you see his eyes popping?

Miss Didjah, unhappily, experienced an annoying experience and for a time it threatened to cast gloom over her tour. The trunk carrying her costumes and much of her music half of which were original manuscripts, was lost. It required several days of frantic wiring and telephoning to locate the missing wardrobe.

Belle was the first American dancer ever to appear professionally in the Holy Land. Once crossing the desert, she met a sheik with ten of his wives, and he asked her to dance for him. She was hesitant, wherefore el sheik commanded his ten furs to climb down and tread a measure on the burning sands of the Sahara, just for Miss Didjah's amusement. Of gratitude, she danced too. He was so pleased he gave her two silver rings, which she still wears.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—The Supreme court is unfair to organized chiseling and has doubled the hazard of jockeying railroads out of part of the fare between Washington and New York.

For long years the railroads have run weekend excursions between the two cities. The round trip excursion fare is $3.75 for the 225-mile trip. That is nearly a dollar less than the one way fare even under the two-cents-a-mile rates. It is less than half the first class one way fare.

Thousands of Washingtonians flock to the trains late Saturday night for the privilege of a few hours in the great Empire City. We have heard also that you can prove that a few New Yorkers boldly cross the Hudson each weekend for the thrills of a Sunday in the desert wilds of Washington.

It is a short excursion either way. You leave at midnight Saturday and must be on the train by Sunday midnight to return. But all that procedure is above board and honest.

Stubs Cashed

The racket lies here. Certain smart porters and general hangers-on around the railroad stations discovered that many people bought the round-trip tickets intending to go only one way, since even that meant a saving from the regular one-way fare.

So a passenger bound from Washington to New York would be accommodated in the New York depot with an offer of 50 cents for his return stub. That was gravy for the passenger, since he didn't intend using it anyway. In turn, these stubs would be sold to passengers bound back to Washington. The price was $1.50 or $2, again a neat saving for the passenger and a nice profit of two or three hundred per cent for the handler.

The business developed to hand-some proportions and "dealers" set themselves up in New York and Washington hotels ready to do business. But along came the law.

One such alleged dealer in Washington was arrested. She wasn't accused of depriving the railroad of its rightful revenue. Instead she was charged with selling second hand property without a license. Moreover, she was convicted.

Bad Business

She appealed the case on the ground she had been denied a jury trial, and by that means it came to the supreme court. The supreme court held that for such minor crimes as selling second hand goods without a license it was all right to refuse the expensive jury trial. However, the case was sent back to the lower courts on technical grounds for retrial.

But such publicity was given the case that many of the old ticket dealers are scared out—at least for the time.

'Law and Order' Group

Organized at Lansing

Lansing, Mich.—An organization of a "law and order" group in Lansing with a claimed membership of 12,000 to "see that the constitution is upheld and that the nation operates in an orderly fashion" was announced Monday by Dwight W. Rich, principal of Lansing's Eastern High school and chairman of the Americanization committee of the local American Legion.

Rich said the membership "would cooperate with regularly established police departments if requested" but he denied the organization was seeking trouble.

"We prefer to bring about law and order through an educational campaign," Rich said, "but we could resort to force if it became necessary."

Rich denied the organization was secret, but refused to name its officers, meeting place, or title.

The announcement that Miss Gorrow had won the prize money which she will apply to her college education was made at a flag day program sponsored by the Elks club last night in the Civic auditorium. Superintendent James F. Cavanaugh gave the principal address entitled "History of Our Flag."

List Committee

Leo Schmalz, secretary of the Elks, read the name of Miss Gorrow as the winner of the contest in which graduating seniors who plan to attend college competed. He was chairman of the committee that judged the papers written by the students. Other members were Cavanaugh, L. F. Nelson, Harry McAndrews, Herbert Weckwerth and Dan Hennessey, exalted ruler of the Elks.

Hennessey presided at last night's program which was opened by the advance of colors by the drum and bugle corps from the Sons of the American Legion. This corps first set out from the Legion clubrooms at 7:30, a half-hour before the program started in the auditorium, and marched to the corner of Wisconsin avenue and Lawe street on the North side and Second and Main on the South side for maneuvers.

Cavanaugh talked, and a song, "Columbia," was sung by Leo Hennessey. After another number by the band, Schmalz announced the award. "Semper Fidelis" by the drum and bugle corps concluded the program.

Miss Gorrow will compete in a state contest Saturday in Milwaukee for a grand prize of $300, the climax of the series of examinations sponsored in high schools throughout the state by the Elks organization.

Kaukauna — The men who open the Wisconsin avenue and Lawe street bridges for the squatty, powerful tugs to pass have been busier this year than last, according to Elmer Johnson, bridge tender.

Johnson, who keeps his tally on a calendar, reported this week that the bridges were opened 63 times during the month of April and 265 times during May. Last year the figures were 64 and 153 respectively. Navigation opened April 12 this year.

The bridge tenders expect the parade of pleasure boats to start down the Fox river soon, now that warmer weather is here to stay.

Youths Suffer Sorrows During Childhood Days

BY ANGELO PATRI

Youth's sorrows are real. To be left waiting for the invitation to the dance that does not come; to be ignored at the party; to feel clumsy or body and dull of mind; to come to consider oneself a nit-wit beside the youth who is the life of the party; to want the very right suit or the latest hat and know it is forever beyond one—these are sorrows that go deep into the hearts of boys and girls in their teens. Grown people smile at them. Long ago they have forgotten the pain they suffered for these very things. Age takes Youth's sorrows lightly.

To be sure Age knows that all this will pass. They are the experiences of Youth the world over since Cain and Abel. But Youth knows only the pain of today and it is very real. And hope long deferred, as long as the day after tomorrow, might just as well not trouble itself about the matter. What are parents to do about it?

It is not possible to save children pain and sorrow as they grow toward maturity. The best we can hope to do is to point out cheerfully that we and the neighbors and the neighbors' children suffer alike. Youth always feels its troubles to be unique, and if one can very cheerfully explain that we are all in the same boat it helps. Misery does love company.

Not that perhaps so much as that young people like to feel themselves of the crowd, even if it is trouble that makes them kin. It is this very feeling that prompts the heartache of the unhappy child in the first place. John can use the car whenever he wants to. Marianne wears spike heels to school. Kitty can smoke because her mother lets her and her mother belongs to the church, so why can't I? Every girl in the town got an invitation for the dance except me. All the fellows can have a good time at a party except me. EXCEPT me, is the thing that hurts. Being set apart, being different, being left out of the crowd, is sorrow and grief, and it demands respect and comfort, too.

Don't say that it doesn't matter. You know that it will not matter in the long run, but you know, too, that it matters to this stricken child. Talk it over cheerfully, as with a grownup person, worthy of your consideration and best thought. Offer a friendly suggestion. Try to find something in which this child excels. Point out his excellencies, and don't be shy about putting in a good word for home and family at the same time. Dad isn't so bad, you know, and mother does take an interest. There will be other parties and other opportunities for stardom.

I know a girl who used to stand glowering in a corner, blunting her nails at recess time. In class she was likely to explode in a tantrum that shook the school from cellar to flagstaff. She was the bane of the teachers' lives and the despair of her mother. Then she learned to play tennis, expertly. She took medals and cups and many bows. She is the very sunshine of the community today. It does happen.

"Your turn is coming," with hints how to hasten it, is a very helpful hint. There is no shortcut to maturity, but there are helpful hints to be given and acted upon.

When you want an unusual garnish for a salad boil two eggs hard, shell and let them stand in vinegar that beets have been pickled in. They will be a pretty shade of red and when sliced will look real nice among green lettuce leaves.

It is a good plan to go over your bean plants at intervals and look for any on which brown spots may show. Plants marked in this way should be immediately pulled up and destroyed, for these spots are likely to be an indication of anthracnose, the most destructive enemy of beans in the bean garden. It usually pays to plant beans well in to July in order that later crops

Story of the Circus

II.—P. T. BARNUM

On a May day in the year 1831, the people of Hartford, Conn., were treated to the sight of circus bills which carried this message:

Scudder's American museum, and used it to display "a Japanese mermaid, a white negress and General Tom Thumb."

The "mermaid" was really a monkey and a fish fastened together. Tom Thumb was a dwarf, a young man only 29 inches high. His true name was Charles Stratton, but Barnum believed the public would be more interested in "General Tom Thumb."

Barnum lived to the age of 79, and a great deal of his long life was spent in managing circuses which traveled from city to city. Usually he had one or two partners. His best known partner was James A. Bailey, who joined him in running the Barnum and Bailey circus. They called it "The Greatest Show on Earth."

Perhaps the greatest money-making feature ever added to the Barnum & Bailey circus was a giant elephant known as Jumbo. This animal was bought from the London zoo, and the cost seems to have been about $10,000.

Jumbo was an African elephant which stood about 11 feet tall. Children had ridden on his back while he was at the zoo, and Barnum's "stretches" showed this fact—but "stretches" it. Instead of picturing two or three children riding on the elephant, the posters showed a little army of about 40 boys and girls perched on Jumbo's back! The circus toured in Canada as well as through the United States. The profits on Jumbo had been figured at one million dollars.

Duplicate Bridge Demands Expert Playing Technique

BY ELY CULBERTSON

One of the best features of duplicate bridge is that it demands the very last ounce in playing technique. The mere fact that a team arrives at a game contract and finds it cold is not enough. The extra twenty or thirty points, insignificant at rubber bridge, easily may result in that extra one or two match points which spells the difference between winning and merely coming second. The opportunity for picking up one of these precious match points on any hand, regardless of the player's individual holding, creates an exciting suspense that makes this form of bridge supreme to thousands of players. Today's hand is an example of such an opportunity.

Rest Before You Sit For Photograph

BY ELSIE PIERCE

A reader writes: "I am not a bride nor a graduate, and this conglomeration of features is little reason for sitting for a photograph, but Father's Day is around the corner and I think it would please him no end to receive a photograph so I've decided to take this step. Have you any beauty hints to help one out in such a dilemma?"

Personally I have a feeling that the writer of the above note is much more attractive than she admits, for only an attractive person would write in such facetious vein. Be that as it may, however, here are the hints: In a sense you are buying Beauty when you sit for a photograph, so take heed: First, I would pretend that it takes two days to make a photo. The day before the sitting I would rest leisurely and luxuriously, longer than usual. I would get additional sleep (at least on hour or two) the night before. You don't want the candid camera to tell a waiting world about the rings and circles under your eyes. Of course, a clever photographer can retouch them, but why have them in the first place?

A few days before you sit for the photograph, have your hair "set." If you have a permanent and the wave stays in for several days, it is bound to look softer and more natural a day or two after it has been arranged than immediately following the finger-wave.

Your hands should be manicured, too. And a good rule is: hold something gracefully (the bouquet for the bride; the diploma for the graduate; a book or purse) if the picture is to be a close up. It is just as well for the hands to be out of sight, but if it is to be taken at some distance then holding something makes the hands look more graceful and at ease.

Have a facial or give yourself one an hour or two before you go to the photographers. But don't use your usual make-up because special make-up is necessary for the camera.

Camera Make-up

A leading beauty purveyor has a special screen and stage make-up which is fine for photography purposes. But whether you use a special make-up or not, a few simple rules should be remembered. That rouge photographs as a smudge therefore it is best to omit it. It may make you look hollow cheeked if used. A good powder base is recommended to make the skin look clear; blemishes may be covered with a spot stick or grease paint. Plenty of lipstick may be used over an oily base to make the lips look dewy, eyeshadow applied high toward the brow and brown rather than black or blue; mascara over oil to highlight the lashes.

Stupid, Selfish Women Become Ugly When Old

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a young man, a college graduate, a lawyer doing well in my profession. For three years I have been desperately in love with a girl who loves me but who is a little idiot. I admit it, although I love her with every beat of my heart. She can't hold an intelligent conversation; she lacks tact, is selfish and conceited, yet she has me won completely. I want to be with her every minute. Her silly and childish gibber-gabber, which grates on the nerves of all who know her, fascinates me. She is a beauty but decidedly stupid.

Answer: Your friend is right; it could quite easily lead to a stalemate in a doctor's professional standing to hear him called by his first name by patients. Perhaps he might (if you think he can carry it out tactfully), to whichever one comes to his office and hails him as "Jim," say something like this: "Will you and your wife (or husband) do something to help me in my profession?" The answer will probably be "Gladly," after which your friend explains "Will you call me Doctor or old people? If you did it would add very much to my prestige, since a doctor who is called by his first name by his patients does not give those who might become patients very much confidence."

Don't you think that since I am well aware of her lack of brains and love her in spite of it, I can safely embark upon the sea of matrimony? Does it matter if you have a wife who is a dumbbell as long as your friends can slap you on the back and say: "My, what a peach you've married!" Let me have some of your advice, Miss Dix. B.M.L.

Answer: The objection to marrying a girl who has nothing but good looks to recommend her is that her attractions are evanescent and soon fade, hence the man who marries her is bound to lose out in the end. She isn't even a good matrimonial bet. She is a certain loss.

Mr. Culbertson will discuss this hand in tomorrow's article.

Jo-Jotte Pointer

You were the declarer at hearts but your opponent has just bid nullos. The turned trump is the ace of clubs and the information card is the king of diamonds. Should you bid a slam on this hand: A 10 K, J A 10 K, Q 10 Q, 10? Yes. You should say "I bid a slam and I meld 100 (for the four tens)." Your chance of making the slam is rather remote.

For your opponent may have the ace of spades, the ace of diamonds, or the guarded nine of hearts and defeat you. Nevertheless, you have no chance of compelling your opponent to win a trick at nullos and must, therefore, bid a slam as a sacrifice (with some chance of success) to

PROFESSIONAL SITUATIONS REQUIRING TACT

Dear Mrs. Post: A friend has asked me to write you about a professional problem he is having. When finishing medical school he made the acquaintance of two couples, one with whom he has since become very friendly and the other with whom he still is only impersonally acquainted. My friend is now practicing but struggling to get started. The couple who are good friends call him "Jim," naturally, but the other couple, who are now his patients, also call him "Jim," which he finds very annoying since he feels that to be spoken to as "Doctor" is essential to his professional authority. I feel that he should tell them frankly that he prefers to be called "Doctor" but he is afraid this would displease them, which might mean losing them as well as some of their friends who have promised to consult him when the occasion arises. Will you suggest something he can do if I am wrong?

Answer: Your friend is right; it could quite easily lead to a stalemate in a doctor's professional standing to hear him called by his first name by patients. Perhaps he might (if you think he can carry it out tactfully), to whichever one comes to his office and hails him as "Jim," say something like this: "Will you and your wife (or husband) do something to help me in my profession?" The answer will probably be "Gladly," after which your friend explains "Will you call me Doctor or old people? If you did it would add very much to my prestige, since a doctor who is called by his first name by his patients does not give those who might become patients very much confidence."

Dear Mrs. Post: About a year ago I visited in the city where this company has a branch office, and while there was entertained, at the suggestion of my employer, very generously by the district manager and his wife. This district man has now been promoted to this office and is my employer, and his wife has just moved to town. After my return last year I wrote her and thanked her as best I knew how for their kindness, but I did nothing else to repay them. Now that they are here I would like to do something for them if there is anything that I would be expected to do. But without advice I hesitate to make a move because the situation has become a trifle changed since her husband has become my employer.

Answer: Under the circumstances it would seem best that you do nothing further than perhaps tell your present employer that you would be very glad if you could be of use to Mr. Emmerich in helping her get settled. Your offer would be on a professional, rather than a social basis. On the other hand, you would naturally meet any new gesture of kindness or hospitality on her part halfway.

Old Gardener Says:

BY E. I. FARRINGTON

One of the worst enemies of the vegetable garden is the striped cucumber beetle. It feeds greedily on cucumbers, muskmelons, squashes and pumpkins. The beetles are particularly destructive of seedlings, attacking them as soon as they appear above the ground. However, the beetles often remain until the first frost kills the vines in the fall. Control measures, to be effective, must begin as soon as the plants come up and continue at least until they begin to vine. The most effective, cheapest and safest treatment for the cucumber beetle is calcium arsenate used as a dust or spray. The plants should be sprayed at four or five-day intervals during the first five or six weeks of plant growth.

MURDER ON THE BLUFF BY E. C. SEGAR

Chapter 19

WHO HIT WILLIAM?

HOW LONG I WAS UNCONSCIOUS I have never been able to determine. I came to lying in darkness, strapped down to something that I presumed to be William's bed, my hands bound under me, a gag tied in my mouth, and pain playing an Anvil Chorus in my head. It was a long time before I could summon enough interest to save the full horror of my position. William was the murderer and I was the victim. I was lying in a room, observed and unsuspected. I thrashed about wildly. But it was no good. The straps that bound me held. After a while I gave up the attempt, exhausted.

It seemed incredible that I could have hesitated over William's guilt. My doubts about Michael and the Skipper were forgotten and I lay there impatiently cursing my own stupidity. If anything were to happen before that night was over, I thought, I could blame myself.

My bright ideas had nudged a bunch of women into a room with an invalid and an old man and left them there unprotected. Worse than that, I had managed to arouse their suspicions from the guilty person and had instructed them to open the door to him immediately. Fool! Short-sighted, doddering idiot! Was William or not? My flesh crept at the thought of it. Farrington's mannerism and the mangled way the word of a safe man had been uttered.

He was a man, and a man who had a ready-made idea of his own mind and a ready-made idea of his own mind. He was a man who had a ready-made idea of his own mind and a ready-made idea of his own mind.

There was a sound from the direction of the corridor, soft but unmistakable. William — or someone else? I lay very still, straining my ears to catch it again. Perhaps William had finished his job and come back for me! The noise came again, a little louder. Someone was talking in a low, careful murmur just outside the door. A deeper voice answered. "Mike, I was sure of it."

Black Despair Sweeps Me

With a desperate effort I wrenched at the straps holding my shoulders. They gave a little, and I wrenched again. My head hit something hard—the iron bed post. Gritting my teeth, I pounded my head on that iron. It seemed to me that the noise would have wakened the dead. But there was no sound from the hall. I tried again, frantically, but my straining ears caught only the sound of receding footsteps and a door closing softly.

I have had my share of disappointments, I suppose, but I have never had another like that one. Black despair swept me. Then suddenly a blinding ray of light shown full on my face. In breathless, motionless horror I lay there waiting.

"Good God," said Michael's voice from the darkness. In another second the room was filled with light. Gay was with him. They were at me in a twinkling. The trunk straps that held me were on the floor and the gag was out of my mouth. Michael, vigorous as a cat, sent the blood flowing into my arms and legs. My tongue felt like a balloon. My eyes ached in the sudden light. It was a full 10 minutes before I could either move or speak or move more than that before I did either. Mike worked with a sort of determined fury. Gav nervously sniffed with fear.

"William," I managed at last. "Where's William?"

"At the foot of the back stairs with a jump the size of a house on his back," said Michael. "What happened, Jim? What happened?"

"At the first of 'em were crossing the again."

"William," I said, "hid in this doorway and croaked me with a golf club as I came through."

There was a long silence.

"That was a close shave," said Gav. "You were a little shaky, Jim. I saw you strike me—and I was sure that the old—who the devil struck William? And why? I stared at him."

"I don't know," I said. "I don't know."

Mike's face was screwed in thought. "Sure, but—Good Lord, he was a little shaky. He has an awful head. You must have been hit with something sharp and heavy."

"Such as a golf club?"

"Yes. There are pieces of one in the head of the sturp." He offered me a cigarette with shaking hands.

Horrible Little Room

As the match flared, Gay's voice gasped. "Are—are you sure—it was William?"

"I'm not sure," I said. "I'm not sure."

"But was it?" William had gone through the door. I had seen him.

Waupaca—Signs were being rapidly removed from city streets Monday by order of Mayor F. R. Fisher, to comply with orders received by the local highway department from the state highway commission. According to Charles Larson, county highway commissioner, signs have been removed from the right-of-way in the rural districts, many having been taken down last fall, but it was not until this week that action was taken within the city, following receipt of a letter by the mayor a few days ago. IT'S ODD But It's Science

New York—(U)—Dr. Spencer Davis, of Dallas, has a new indoor sport, photographing the other waves of radio. With the aid of oscillographs he records the same program coming in simultaneously from two stations on the same network.

His pictures show the signals

from the nearer station arrive first. Sometimes there will be as much as a fifth of a second ahead.

Radio's ether waves are the next fastest thing known to the speed of light. They travel thousands of miles a second, up near the speed of light sometimes, but they are not instantaneous. Dr. Davis can check them in any time and see how fast they are rolling at the moment.

Following members of the high school tennis squad were awarded junior memberships to the club: Robert Floyd, Fred Yaley, Vernon Ponto, George Goecker, John Pawlowski, Henry Landskron, James Omachinski and William Heckrodt.

Report New York Giants Seeking First Baseman Camilli

Terry Benches McCarthy, Gives Post to Leslie

Deadline for Major Player Trades is Midnight Tonight

BY BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

WORRIED by the fact that midnight is the deadline for major league trades, New York's twin pair settlers, the Yankees and Giants were ready today for another invasion by their western rivals.

The mauling, but somewhat less-than-terrific Yankees tangled with Cleveland in the first of 13 games in the Bronx while the pumblers, puzzling, but winning Giants made Pittsburgh their first port of call on a 12-game swing through the west.

Only one possible deal was in sight and that lacked official confirmation. The Giants, needing punch particularly at Manager Bill Terry's old job, first base, were reported to be angling for Dolph Camilli of the Phillies. The rumor, which officials did not confirm, said Terry was offering Johnny McCarthy, his expensive young first baseman, and catcher Harry Danning for Camilli and Bill Atwood, another spare backstop.

Sam Leslie replaced McCarthy Sunday and Terry apparently was counting upon him to fill the job and possibly provide some of the power that has been missing during Mel Ott's unparalleled batting slump and Hank Leiber's convalescence from the Bob Feller beating. McCarthy, hampered by a leg injury, was hardly hitting the size of his hat.

The Yankees, like the Giants only a half game in front of Chicago, also looked to improved performances from the men who have kept them on top so far. Manager Joe McCarthy is quite content with the power his word champions have been providing—49 home runs in 44 games, among other things—but he'll be relieved when Monte Pearson and Spurgeon (Spud) Chandler report for regular mound duty.

Chicago's Cubs and White Sox, both going great guns, also seemed willing to stand pat on their present lineups.

Iron Men in Track Becoming Common

Berkeley, Calif.,—(AP)—Athletic notables who rate the distinctive ranking of "iron men" will be common as house flies down on the farm when the country's track and field talent assembles here Friday and Saturday for the National Collegiate A. championships.

A mere two-event man will not get a tumble from the spectators. From Wayne University of Detroit has been entered Allan Tolmich. He will compete in four events, the 100 and 220-yard dashes and the high and low hurdles. He has a 9.7 seconds hundred; a 21 flat furlong, 14.3 seconds race in the 120-yard high barriers and a 23.4 clocking in the low hurdles to his credit.

Two Negro stars, Eulace Peacock of Temple and Ben Johnson of Columbia, will compete in three events. Each is entered in the two short dashes and the broad jump.

Minneapolis In Win Over Toledo

Score 6 to 5; Milwaukee Idle Because of Rain Storm

Chicago—(AP)—If the Minneapolis Millers keep it up, its going to be a big job to tumble them from the top of the American association heap.

The Millers, whose powerful hitting has been largely instrumental in sending them skyrocketing to first place, won another game from the Toledo Mud Hens yesterday, 6 to 5, to increase their lead over the Hens to two full games. Spence Harris was the big gun in the Miller offense, getting two homers and driving in four runs.

Johnny Rizzo's fourth home run of the series and another by Jimmy Webb started the Columbus Red Birds to an 8 to 2 victory over St. Paul. Hal Chambers was nipped for 11 hits by the Saints but trounced up when men were in scoring position.

Indianapolis made it two out of three from Kansas City by defeating the Blues, 5 to 2, behind Pat McLaughlin's six-hit pitching. The Tribe garnered 13 hits, with six men getting two each.

Rain forced postponement of the Louisville-Milwaukee game.

Grangers Load Bases But Lack Punch to Score in County League Tilt

Greenville—(AP)—Failure to score with the bases loaded in the ninth inning cost Greenville Grange an Outagamie County Baseball league victory here Sunday afternoon when Shiocion scored in the tenth inning for a 3 to 2 victory. Shiocion scored two runs in the fifth inning and led until the last of the ninth when the Grangers tied the score.

The winning run came in the first half of the tenth and Shiocion held the Grangers scoreless in the last half of the inning. A double play in the tenth ended Granger threats to score.

Omholt, Shiocion catcher, got the only extra base hit in the game when he socked a double. Lathrop struck out three men and walked none, but hit one batter with a pitched ball. Kuzinski fanned three and walked two.

Don Budge Liked By Net Experts

English Scribes Figure Britain Will Lose Davis Cup

London—(AP)—After one good look at the new and improved Don Budge, England's tennis experts were about ready today to concede that the Davis cup is going on a long trip across the water.

A half dozen of them, polled by the Associated Press after the red-head had played his opening singles match at Queens club yesterday, were almost unanimous about it. One had an idea that German might win the big cup but the other five voted a straight American ticket. Not one picked England largely because the defenders' best doubles team, George P. Hughes and Charles R. Tuckey, has been a big disappointment all spring.

It was Budge's third appearance in England but it might have been his first from the way all the experts in the south of England crowded around to watch him torpedo young Jerry Duxhall.

Frankie Parker was frankly a disappointment to the experts. They had expected him to "spin the ball around like all the Americans" and were amazed at his difficulty in eliminating Henry Billington, who is no better than a good second rater. The experts had been waiting to see Parker for five years.

Dave Woodward, Packer Trainer, Tells About Bronko Nagurski, All-American

(Sports Editor's Note: This is the sixth of a series on athletic training by Dave Woodward, trainer of the Green Bay Packers, National professional football champions.)

It didn't worry this courageous athlete, although he was handicapped by it.

Gets Surgeon's O. K.

The mishap, which was a spinal injury, was carefully x-rayed, and diagnosed by our orthopedic surgeon, and though a very painful and handicapping injury, we were able by the use of a specially prescribed brace and protection, to use Nagurski at tackle in every game. This, of course, was a k'd by our orthopedic surgeon.

This injury occurred in the first part of his senior year, but Nagurski continued to play the same brilliant tackle, which in the end made him the outstanding player he became.

I would like to speak of one selfish act that characterizes Bronko Nagurski. We were playing Wisconsin, an all-important game, and were leading 6 to 0, with three or four minutes of play remaining. Wisconsin had completed a pass to one of its flashiest halfbacks. He was in the clear with only one man between him and a touchdown. Freddy Horvath, our safety man, was trying to cover that important assignment of stopping this man, when Nagurski, who backed up the line on defense, came charging across the field and tackled the runner. After the game the boys, the coaches and trainers were happily congratulating Nagurski on his great tackle. The Nag simply said, "I really didn't stop that man. If it hadn't been for Freddy slowing him down, I would have never reached him."

Great on Defense

I also recall his great defensive play that same day. Rebolz, playing fullback for Wisconsin, was surely giving the Nag a run for his money, and Wisconsin was going places. Due to the ball carrying maneuvers of Rebolz, Wisconsin was making gains consistently, and Nagurski was taking the brunt of the attack, backing up the line, until a smart cage opportunity presented itself. After Rebolz had made one of his many line smashes on that drive, and was stopped again by Nagurski, it was discovered by one of the officials when the players had become untangled that Nagurski had the ball. It was rumored that Nagurski had stolen that prized trophy, that from that point turned into a Minnesota touchdown and won the ball game.

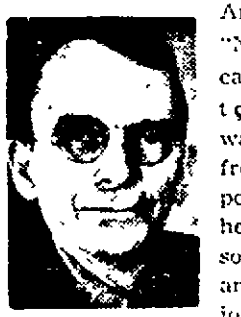

There, boys, you have Bronko Nagurski, who in a quick thinking moment made it possible for his teammates to realize victory.

Nagurski, who is 6 feet 2 inches tall, weighed 235 pounds in condition, during his college career. However, today he plays football weighing about 235 pounds, and wrestles at between 240 and 250 pounds.

Nagurski has followed football and wrestling as a profession since graduating from the University of Minnesota.

Bronko also likes boys. He has acted as instructor at several boys' camps, and really seems to cover as much ground with boys of younger age, as he does in his terrific football playing.

In summing things up, I might quote Dr. Spears, who said at an address when Nagurski graduated that he (Nagurski) was without a doubt, the greatest football player he had ever coached, and that Nagurski's spirit would linger and should be one of Minnesota's great traditions.

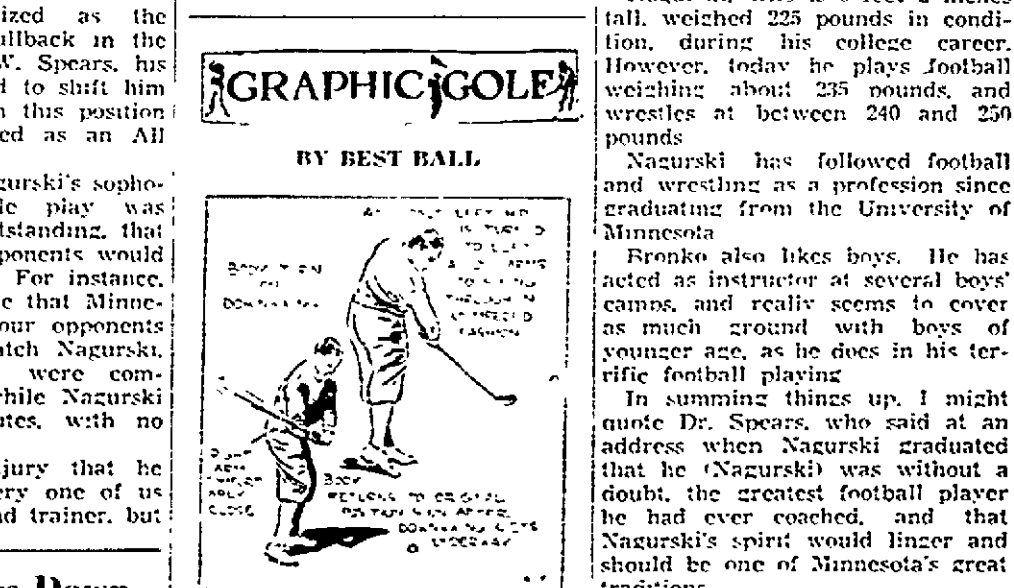

Woodward assigned the position of fullback. But due to an unfortunate injury when he was undoubtedly recognized as the greatest collegiate fullback in the country.

Woodward assigned the position of fullback. But due to an unfortunate injury when he was undoubtedly recognized as the greatest collegiate fullback in the country.

Dr. C. W. Spears, his coach, was compelled to shift him back to tackle. From this position Nagurski was selected as an All-American tackle.

I recall that in Nagurski's sophomore year, his tackle play was so vicious and outstanding, that from two to four opponents would be used to stop him. For instance, in the Michigan game that Minnesota won 13 to 7, four opponents were assigned to watch Nagurski, and these four men were completely used up, while Nagurski played the 60 minutes, with no time out.

On the downstroke make sure that the left hip turns far enough aside so as not to impede the path of the stroke. This is one fundamental that will bear constant watching. Oftentimes it causes considerable damage before the golfer is aware just what the trouble is. Moving the left hip to the left is the first preliminary of the downswing and starts in motion the pulling down of the left arm and the club. This tension between the left hip and the arm is continued for some distance, until, in fact, the right arm starts to take a hand in the proceedings and lends it power along with that stored in the cocked wrists. It is at this point that so many players forget that the left hip should still keep moving aside and give the left arm a pulling job.

As a result the left hip remains stationary and right in the path of the stroke. There is no chance for the left arm to ease this barrier as it descends and as a result the arm collapses. Power is lost and the shot hit astray. Make it a point to remember that the left hip must keep turning at this point and you are in line for longer and straighter shots.

Expect Heavy Go To Draw Big Gate

Mike Jacobs Says Bout is Cinch to Bring a Million Dollars

Chicago—(AP)—Mike Jacobs, the man behind the Jim Braddock-Joe Louis heavyweight title fight, a week from tonight at Comiskey park, said today the bout "is a cinch" to draw a gate of $1,000,000.

"The sale of tickets to Chicago people has been slow," said the New York promoter, who is acting as advisor to Promoter Joe Foley, "and that's one reason why I'm sure the ticket sale will go to at least a million."

The fight principals, meanwhile, continued to aim for peak physical condition at their respective camps. Louis was scheduled to box eight rounds at Kenosha, Wis., and Thursday planned to go 15, the title fight distance. His showing last Sunday against five sparmates was considered particularly impressive and the bomber said he believed he would be in top shape when he enters the ring.

Braddock golfed yesterday. He will ease off after a ring drill today, being within three pounds of the 195 he said he would weigh the night of the battle.

Pegler Considers New Farm-to-Market Roads

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER
Poundridge, N. Y.—That man from the government has been around again in our neighborhood, away from it all up the country, insisting that we need a farm-to-market road, and our citizens are up in arms about the matter. He was around a couple of years ago, and we chased him off, but he curled his lip in a sinister leer as he went and said: "You haven't heard the last of this, my fine friends."

"You haven't heard the last of this, my fine friends. Nobody can defy the United States Government." We'll thought the matter had just been allowed to drop, but apparently someone has been going over some old papers in Washington and that man is here again.

We haven't got any farms up here away from it all, and the grocery store at the center buys all his tomatoes and parsley and such things from the big market in New York, but the man claims we have got to have a farm-to-market road, even if he has to import a farmer from Kansas and build a market himself.

The neighbors don't want the road, because it would draw traffic to their seclusion, which is what they came to the community for, and the supervisors are playing the chills for the proposition, because the town would have to pay for the land, which would run up the taxes and get them in wrong with the voters.

Some of the neighbors knowing that I go down to Washington pretty often have called around to ask if I can't use a little pull to get that man called off and sent to South Dakota, with his farm-to-market road, but you can just imagine what drag I have after needing Mr. Biz about his income tax exemptions and Jim Farley about the political poor box robbers stuck away in soft jobs.

Put Plan Into Effect
In Sections Where Needed
I used to get that occasional friendly letter from Harid Ickes, but the last time I saw him at the gridiron dinner he pulled a sour puss on me and walked away. So I guess he must be sore, too. So, probably, if I should go around trying to get them to call off that man and drop his farm-to-market road into some state that has a farm and a market they would call a huddle and build another golden gate bridge in front of my place.

This farm to market road is going to cost $100,000 or so, as near as we can figure, and we are fixing to build a new school which would cost just that, so I said to one of the boys on the town board, "Why don't you ask the guy to skip the road and build the school instead?" But he said, "No, I asked him about that, but he says it has got to be a road, and it has got to pass a farm at one end and a market at the other. So I told him we didn't have any farm or any market and he said, 'One radish is a farm, if it comes to that, and one roadside stand is a market, if it buys the radish, so don't be trying to evade the law with technicalities having the color of legality. That is the way with you lousy rich all the way. You haven't got the first instinct of good citizenship, trying to sabotage our beloved president.'"

The last time the man was around a couple of years ago there was quite a lot of excitement in our neighborhood, because he went sneaking around disguised as a college boy selling magazines and poking his nose into back yards for no reason.

Aroused Personal Spite
By Not Using Tact
He found several places where they were growing a tomato or a corn and claimed these were all farms but our people got a lawyer and made affidavits that these were pets, and there was a ruling of the supreme court that amateur vegetable do not constitute farming in the meaning of the law. But just to play it safe everybody has refrained from growing any suspicious vegetation ever since, and still here the guy is again with his road, and now the neighbors all look on one another with suspicion in fear that some traitor has planted a mess of greens constituting a farm.

I suppose there is a lot in the way you treat these people and maybe it was a mistake to run him off so abruptly the other time, arousing his personal spite, but, after all, his approach wasn't any too tactful either.

He just came in and said, "Where do you want that farm-to-market road built?"

Citizenship and government are getting terribly complicated anyway. About that school, the way I understand it, we were going to build a nice school for $40,000, but somebody discovered that the state won't share the burden unless you spend at least $50,000 for the school. So I suppose we are going to build a $100,000 school instead of the $40,000 one and load the poor kids down with two and a half times as much education as they need, and probably give them brain fever.

It's always something, isn't it?

Hollywood News And Gossip

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood—Mervyn LeRoy was directing an intimate love scene between Gloria Dickson and Edward Norris, but his final instruction was to the set-workers behind the camera, not to the players.

"Please move over, everybody—out of their line of vision."

George Fitzmaurice was directing William Powell and Luise Rainer in a not-so-intimate scene, and he said the same thing, directing his remark, I'm afraid, at me who was not in their line of vision anyway. I remember thinking at the time, Fitzmaurice was just an excitable crank, that Mr. Powell didn't give a hoot about his line of vision anyway.

And I left the set before finding out what Mr. Powell thought, but since then I've learned that many actors have trouble with the things they see while emoting.

Ian Hunter, no ham, vouchsafed that he does.

"It's most distracting," he explained, "to lay my soul bare to Kay Francis when out of the corner of my eye I see a little lady from Kankakee, a visitor on the set, nudge her husband and grin."

Kay Francis had her say, too. She was doing a love scene with George Brent, once, and Brent was saying, "Look at me and you will see the love in my eyes."

"I looked. Over his shoulder I saw, not the love in his eyes, but a prop man biting off a big chew of tobacco."

The surroundings of a movie set are not exactly inspiring. People on the sidelines, looking in, see actors at work. The actors, under the camera's eye and looking out, see the camera, the microphone boom man, the director, from ten to 50 set-workers, and any visitors who may be on hand. Catching the eye of an actor, in the middle of his scene, is one of the sweetest tricks you can play on him.

And especially so during a love scene. In many of these, the screen lovers have just met each other when the romancing starts. Sometimes it is how-do-you-do and give-me-a-kiss for the cameras. Dick Powell had barely met Doris Weston when they had to start making a decent love scene. Dick takes them in stride by now, but Miss Weston, new to films, found the abruptness disconcerting.

"Everybody knew I was flustered," she said, "and smiled encouragement from the sidelines. I in the second row, rhythmically sweeping a pocket comb across his hair."

Humphrey Bogart holds that seeing somebody in the audience engrossed in something else while you're tearing your heart out is Waupaca—Applications for marriage licenses were received by County Clerk L. J. Steiger for the week ending June 12, from the following: Rexford W. Michaels, Marion, and Vivian Penney, New London; Willard Wolff, Clintonville; and Elvira Kunschke, Clintonville.

Edwin Goodrich, Westboro, and Alvin Kawalsky, Clintonville; Albert Ziemer, town of Weyauwega, and Vivian Meyers, Clintonville; Frederick Wurzbach, Weyauwega, and Gladys Schreyer, Weyauwega; Harvey Rach, Weyauwega, and Marie Clark, town of Armstrong, Oconto county; Gordon B. Dexter, town of Matteson, and Jenevieve M. Van Ornum, town of Matteson; Martin Hornburg, town of Union, and Leona Lange, town of Larrabee; Kenneth J. Balderson, Marion, and Mae Bowers, Marion; Leonard Hoffmann, New London, and Vivian Raddatz, town of Bear Creek; Dr. George P. Derbach, New London, to Dorothy H. Bentz, New London.

Irritating be it on stage or movie set.

"Once on the stage," he recalled, "I was saying a beautiful farewell to the heroine and I was wrapped up in that scene. Holding her close, I suddenly glimpsed a movement in the audience. It was a stout man in the second row, rhythmically sweeping a pocket comb across his hair."

"That was when the heroine said 'Ouch' in my anger I'd nearly broken the lady's rib."

and I had not seen him come out, tried to recall the twisted face that had confronted me. I had assumed that it was he, but—

"I don't know," I mumbled in bewilderment. "I thought it was, but—"

"Think," urged Michael. "You must have seen him. Think!"

"Why, he came in here—and— and— Damn it! I suspected him all of a sudden. I sneaked after him. He was standing in the door with a golf club, and he—got me."

"You did see him, then," Michael muttered. "William! It's cockeyed!"

My head was aching with the effort to make sense. "I saw him. Yes, I thought it was William but— There was no dodging the implication. 'It might have been someone else'."

The others! I had forgotten them completely. "Where are they?" I demanded. "Down the hall. We came out to look for you and found William. He couldn't seem to make sense, so we took him back to the rest and came after you."

As I stepped out of that horrible little room, I locked the door after me, and, slipping the key into my pocket, realized that the other keys were still there. Whoever had brained me could not have known that I had them. With those keys in his hands, we should have been at his mercy. It was odd that he should have left William's door unlocked and the key for us to find.

THOUSANDS OF MOTORISTS LIKE YOURSELF HAVE PROVED HOW MUCH...HOW EASILY YOU CAN SAVE AS YOU DRIVE!

Mr. Carl Kavanough of Canon City, Colorado, (shown here) is a trouble shooter for the Southern Colorado Power Co. His experience is typical of the thousands who "discovered" how to cut driving costs, in Standard Oil's great "Road Test" last summer.

The statement below is an actual excerpt from the Record Book submitted by an owner, driver in "The World's Greatest Road Test of Gasoline Mileage" last summer.

"I have learned that gas mileage is largely a matter of the driver's common sense in the driving and care of his car. The factors contributing to this are: the purchase of fuel and oil of the right grade and quality, a steady safe speed with unnecessary shifting eliminated, periodic adjustments and lubrication by a first class service station."

Carl Kavanough

It's the better-than-average drivers who've shown us how much others could be saving on gasoline mileage. Thousands, proud of their records, are quick to credit the long-mileage quality of Standard Red Crown Gasoline. Fine!—and Red Crown does help. But the secret of the savings these folks report is largely in the way they treat and drive their cars!

It's hard to believe, 'til you try it, how easy it is to handle your car so as to save as much as 1 gallon in every 10! Try it.

"How to SAVE AS YOU DRIVE" tells you how. Any Standard Oil Dealer will be glad to give you a copy of this guidebook to motor economy, free, while they last.

BY VICTOR EUBANK
New York—(AP)—Recoveries of fractions to 3 or more points predominated in today's stock market as strike news appeared less of an important selling influence. Brokers attributed the quiet comeback partly to quick-turn traders and some short covering based on the theory the wash-out of Monday may have been a climax to the listless performance of the last several weeks. Best prices were seen in the final hour with steels and motors receiving the most noticeable support. Transfers approximated 900,000 shares.

Conspicuous shares on the upside most of the time were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Wheeling Steel, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, Inland Steel, Republic, Chrysler, General Motors, Yellow Truck, U. S. Rubber, Goodrich, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, J. I. Case, Deere, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, American Telephone, American Smelting, Westinghouse, General Electric, Du Pont, Liggett and Myers, "B", Atlantic Coast Line, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, American Locomotive, National Cash Register, Canada Dry, Kennecott, Loew's Otis Elevator and Container Corp.

Baldwin Locomotive Changes are Approved

Philadelphia—(AP)—Baldwin Locomotive Works stockholders approved today changes in the capital structure of the corporation required by the plan of reorganization now before the United States district court. The changes include an increase and reclassification of the authorized capital so that the company will have 125,251 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock of $30 a share par value and 3,000,000 shares of common stock at $13 a share par value. The stockholders also voted to increase the indebtedness up to $33,676,300.

Canadian Newsprint Production at New Top

New York—(AP)—May production of newsprint in Canada set a record at 302,232 tons, the Newsprint Service Bureau announced. It compared with 301,101 tons in March, the previous high figure, and 267,067 tons in May, 1936. United States production was moderately above the previous month at 79,003 tons against 75,719 a year ago.

DECLARES DIVIDEND

New York—(AP)—Friedrich Grain and Malt Co. declared a dividend of $1.20 on common stock, of which 15 cents was designated as a quarterly payment and $1.05 an extra. It is payable July 25 to stock of record July 15. In 1936 the company paid 20 cents. Properties are in Wisconsin and Minnesota.
